He writes that he has reliable information of the existence of fifty-eight cases in the pesthouse at Victoria, two cases having been discovered since August 1, the indifference which marked the attitude of the people in that section of the country when the disease first appeared has given place to the greatest activity and energy. Dr. Ruggles intends now to go to the California line and make a thorough examination of every passenger on every train that passes into the State. He will remain there two or three weeks longer, when le expects to receive orders to return lome. His letter furnishes the first lefinite information the health authoriome. California Industry With Vast ereasing Many Times the Mar-ket for the States' Great Fruit Crops.

Sy relegraph to the Times.

San Francisco, Aug. 9.—[By the Associated Press.] J. S. Emery of Oak-land presided at the monthly meeting of the State Board of Trade today.

William H. Mills outlined a plan for increasing the market for California fruits. He showed that in 1891, 251;-216 tons of fruit had been shipped from this State by the Southern Pacific line to such points of sale as made it possible to reach only about 5,000,000 people. Perhaps 15,000 tons had gone ov sea, and as a result of his researches was sure that at least 800,000 tons of California fruit had been sold in 1891. In 1892 he believed that the value of the fruit crop of the State, including all its forms, wine, raisins and dried and fresh fruits, would reach $50,-000,000, and this when under the present methods only one tenth of the population of America was accessible as a

"The measure of the market for early perishable products," said Mr. Mills, "is the number of people to whom they can be conveyed in sound, eatable condition. You have sent thousands of tons of fruit right by the doors of persons in Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and other states who would gladly have purchased it, simply because it has come to be a habit to consider Chicago the depot. So adjust your train service and so build your cars that you can send out many trains every day on fast time, many trains every day on fast time, that may stop at every hamlet and city and leave such fruit as may be desired, and in a short time you can have 50,000,000 people customers and can sell 3,000,000 tons of fruit every year if so much can be raised. Fruit growing is to be the basic industry of California. It is only just coming into use as food. The demand will rapidly increase when certainty of supply and reasonableness in price can be assured.

in price can be assured.

"California fruit ships better than any other. Trade in it should be conducted precisely as that in oysters from Baltimore has been. Special cars and general distribution on quick time will pet California fruit, ripened on the trees, into every family in the country, and the demand will grow as the population grows. Then there can be no limit to the demand and if the plan suggested can be put into operation every acre of land in this State capable of supporting trees will soon have its professional control of the plan suggested. supporting trees will soon have its pros-perous occupant, and the brightest future under the sun will have been eached."

Mr. Mills will resume his subject the second Tuesday in September when he will present a schedule under which the plan may at once be made operative.
The board appointed Eugene J. Gregory, L. C. McAfee, and E. W. Maslin a committee to consult with the Wells-Fargo and other companies upon details of the Mills plan.

Rich Gold Strike in Idaho.

There is great excitement here over the discovery of a fabulously rich gold-bearing quartz ledge in the Dixie district, twenty-two miles up the Rocky Bar rood. In one mine a shaft has been sunk fifty feet and has a large vein exposed which gives an average value of fifty-nine ounces of gold to the ton. Other and smaller veins give much, higher returns.

Gladstone now began his speech against the government. He said the government had departed from all preedents in not resigning when the dict of the country was against them.

The House of Commons had now met, but what for? The Queen's speech told them for nothing. Was the House of Commons to fight the battles of the last, six years over again? Never had a great issue submitted to the country been so fully discussed as the issue decided at the last general elections. Continuing, Gladstone said that Goschea's remark that home rule must be carried out by an Irish majority, if carried out, was not at all pertinent, as the majority in the House was no more Irish than Scotch or Welsh. Such an argument struck at the root of the constitution of the United Kingdom. Constitution of the United Kingdom. servatives had said that in the speeches of the Liberals home rule was not always prominent. The verdict of the people had shown that the country meant it to be prominent and therefore put an end to the present government. He said the Coercion Bill ought not to be retained on the statute book longer than required by Parliamentary bage. Gladstone credited the present overnment with aversion to national debt, but complained that they inflicted on Ireland a gross wrong in making her a servatives had said that in the speeches Ireland a gross wrong in making her a pretended reparation by a local govern-ment bill too limited to satisfy Irish wants or offer any solution of the Irish tranship.

He acknowledged that the House must have some light upon the future, but it was not possible for the Liberal government to say what measures they would submit to Parliament six months hence. In regard to the suggested holding of a session in November, he said that any government taking that course would show an inadequate sense of the would show an inadequate sense of the magnitude of the duty and variety of the subjects. Ireland had for years been in the forefront of battle and still held that position. The principles of his Home Rule Bill were pretty well known. By its provisions there would be a full and effectual maintenance of imperial supremacy, while Ireland would be given the conduct of her own affairs. Irish representation in the Commons was also contemplated under certain conditions. As to the form in first and absorbing attention, and it would so continue till the end. The House would pass a bill giving Ireland self-government and it would then go to the Lords. He would not argue to the Lords. He would not argue upon the probability of the Lords rejecting the bill. The obligations of the Liberal government would utterly forbid acquiescence in the rejection of a measure to promote a settlement of the great subject. He said the various measures of reform which the Liberals and averaged to reason the said the sai measures of reform which the Liberals endeavored to pass while in the opposition represented the essential character of the Liberal policy.

In regard to the evicted tenants, Gladstone expressed hope that in the autumn a voluntary arrangement between landlords and tenants would obviate the precessity for such legislation. tween landiords and tenants would ob-viate the necessity for such legislation as would become inevitable if no ar-rangements were made.

In concluding his speech Gladstone recurred to the Conservative argument that the Irish majority was trying to coerce England. He held that such was the strength of England in relation to other parts of the kingdom that she could never be coerced by them.

Balfour followed Gladstone.

Balfour followed Gladstone. He maintained that the Commons had a right to know before entrusting the government to the Liberals what their policy was. In regard to the proposed vote of "no confidence," continued Balfour, the government might be in the minority, but what was the majority? Had that motley group the confidence of the house! Before the government resigned they had a right to ask what were the conditions under which the alliance between the Liberals which the alliance between the Liberals and Irish would be maintained? What conditions there were between the Nationalists who had been squared and those who had not been squared? And what demands had been made upon the

Senator Carlisle says:

If you mean the policy urged by many under which the United States Government would be compelled by law to receive 69 cents worth of silver builton when presented by the owner and coin it at the expense of the people of the country, and compel the people by law to accept the roin as equivalent for 100 cents, my anwer is, I am not now, and never have been, in favor of it. GERMAN CONSCRIPT LAWS.

An Illustration of the Rigid Method
Their Enforcement, GUATMAS (Mexico,) Aug. 9.—[By the Associated Press.] Paul Rehm and August Hermanos, natives of Germany, who have been employed as mechanic in the Guaymas railway shops, in this city, left here on June 1 to revisit their native village in Germany. When they reached New York they received letters from home urging them to return to Mexico, and warning them that they would surely be arrested under the conscript laws, and be compelled to per-form military service. Rehm, however, decided to take the chances and started for home, and advised his mother that he would remain at home only one night. In a letter just received here it appears that Rehm passed through Belgium on his way to his native town in Saxony, arriving there at midnight. He remained there until 4 o'clock in the morning, conversing with his aged mother, and then left at once for the Belgian frontier, but was arrested on the train when only a few miles from the border. The offense charged against him was avoiding the German military service.

Scores of grand stands, public and pri-vate, were packed and every window along the route was crowded, as well as along the route was crowded, as well as roofs, porches and lawns. Down town buildings were all jammed with sight-seers, and the spectators stood five to ten deep on the sidewalk. It was a good-natured, enthusiastic crowd, ready to cheer everything and everybody. The special qualities claimed for this English built freight vessel are great carrying capacity, the minimum of coal consumption and fair speed.

The agents in New York are T. Hogan & Son. The Progresso if one of three vessels composing the newly established line, and it is expected that a fourth ship will be added in time, when voyages at intervals of six weeks will be made.

Capt. Pillsbury announced in his modest speech that he expected to return to Redondo in February. The sentiment was received with lively favor by the extreme heat and the fact that the stake was received with lively lavor by the audience.

Agent Haswell, in his speech, outlined the plan of the enterprise in a practical way, and expressed great faith in the outcome of this original venture in the field of ocean commerce; aided as he hoped it will be by the enterprise and intelligent self-interest of the merchants of Los Angeles and other Pacific parts.

CAHUENGA VALLEY

Watermelons, Railroads, Politics, Irrigition and Other Things.

The warm days of late have been a box tion and Other Things.

The warm days of late have been a boon to the meion-growers. Nearly, if not quite all the watermelons and canteloupes consumed in Los Angeles are raised in Cahuenga Valley, hundreds of acres of the rich, sandy loam being planted to these fruits every spring. Like the vegetables, they are the first in the market, both in time and quality. While it is hardly proper to say they have "gone off like hot cakes," yet hundreds upon hundreds of immense wagon-loads have found a ready and a thirsty market within the past week. The procession of melon-laden wagons begins to move city ward long before daylight and continues all day. While the demand for almost any green product is more or less affected by weather conditions, that for the watermeton is preëminently so.

Judging from the dozens of great six and eight-horse loads of wheat that daily traverse the valley on the way to the city from San Fernando Valley, via the Cahuenga Pass, the grain croof up that way must have been a pretty good one after all. These heavy teams have cut up the roads rather badly in two or three spots, and it is hoped the road overseer will find time to take the necessary "sittch in time." The roads generally are in very fair shape, and the people are beginning to appreciate the many benefits resulting from that condition.

Dr. Davidson of Los Angeles, who re-many benefits resulting from that condition.

Dr. Davidson of Los Angeles, who recently purchased ten acres of Mr. Squire's fine land on the Boulevard, is determined to let as little of our climate escape him as possible. He has already sunk a well and has his fine cottage well under way.

A corps of engineers have been at work in the pass for some days, surveying for a pipe line to bring irrigating water into this valley. It is not known whether they are employed by the Los Angeles capitalists who lately incorporated the Cahuenga Water Company, or by the English syndicate whose bonds are on the London market. The water will probably be brought from the Tejunga Cañon, where an immense quantity of water now flows to waste from one of the largest watersheds in Southern California. This water, in San Diego, San Bernardino, Fresno or Kern county, would have been utilized years ago. The trouble is, we have been so favored by nature that we have been so favored by nature that we have been able to "get along without it." But we want it now, just to show what we can do.

Though only three months have elapsed since the hay was cut, such a large proportion of it has already been sold and hauled away that our hay fields look quite bare.

Why "Ah Sin" Buys Mexican Coin.

Why "Ah Sin" Buys Mexican Coln.
[San Diego Sun.]

"It is not generally known," remarked a financier to the Sun, "that Chinatown has a place where Mexican dollars are bought for 5, 10 and 15 per cent. more in United States money than the Mexican coin is quoted for. This is due to the fact that the Mexican dollar goes for a dollar in China when it is discounted everywhere else. Ah Sin is not saying much nowadays, but he is still watchful and bland. My attention was called to it in a Fifth street store when called to it in a Fifth street store whe a big fellow with full pockets asked the Chinese proprietor what he was 'paying for Mexican money.' I found he had come from below and that in preference to the banks he always disp silver at an advance rate to some Ch

A special train was run by the South ern California road from Los Angeles to San Diego yesterday, leaving at noon, to carry the Frohman company to that city. Attached to the train was General Manager Wade's private car, T. A. Gardner, general manager of the San Diego Union, who has been lying ill in this city during the past week. Mr. Gardner came up from San Diego re-cently in hopes of regaining his shattered health, but he became so much worse it was deemed best to take him back home.

the evening trains, permitting passengers from this city to make the round

It would be cheaper for us to buy your road."

At Fargo, N. D., a boyoott declared against the Northern Pacific Railroad is being carried out by the merchants and business men. It is asserted that the railroad has violated every promise, and to add insult to injury has erected fine depots and hotels at other points. A manifesto has been issued asking merchants to ship their goods over other lines.

> WE are accustomed to regard the English political system with some of condescension, conceding that it is, in the main, very good; that it is quite responsive to the will of the people, and that, barring the draw backs of a hereditary house of Lords and a purely ornamental and very expensive sovereign, it is almost as good as a republic. The occurrence of general elections in England so near simultaneously with our own is calculated, however, to draw a sharp contrast between the two systems and to the English system is the better. In his notes on the "Progress of the World" the editor of the Review of Reviews thus comments on the contrast between the swift English political campaign and the tedious, long-drawn-out ffairs of this country:

The Salisbury Parliament was prorogued on June 28, and the election of a new House of Commons was ordered to take place within the first three weeks of July; while the writs required the assemblage of the Parliament on August 4. Thus within a few days after the elections have resulted in their favor the Liberals will be in active exercise not only of the legislative but also of the executive power. In this comof the executive power. In this country the interval of some twenty weeks that usually elapses between the great conventions that frame platforms and the elections in November makes the formal campaign oo long and wearisome, and subjects the party organizations to undue strain and temptation. The machine becomes too elaborate and formidable. Campaigning becomes too much a matter of dollars and executive details. Instead of helping public opinion to form itself and express itself in a proper fashion, these over-organized party machines are tending to become inimical to a normal and wholesome play of public opinion such as ought to dominate the in something of a quandary if he did situation.

Discussing the recent train robbery ; Collis and the subsequent murder of fficers who attempted to capture the robbers, a San Francisco exchange sks: "Assuming that the two men at large are captured alive and a plain case is made out against all three, what will be the sequel? Under the laws of California the crime they have committed is a capital offense, but before sentence of death can be pronounced there must be a verdict of guilty found by a jury, and the question is, can such verdict be reasonably expected?' It can probably be expected if enough money is put into the prosecution to insure a rigid trial. If not, the outcome is very uncertain. The money which the robbers have got away with would go a long way toward clearing them. It is a humiliating confession to make, but such is nevertheless a conclusion warranted by previous experience. It is this very uncertainty as to the pun-ishment of red-handed criminals by due process of law that is making impromptu hanging bees so fashionable now-a-days and which secures for them a tacit public approval. The Lost Paradise, at the Grand for an engagement of four nights. This is a play which treats of the all-absorbing question of capital and labor. Perhaps, we are told, no other play has been written which goes from the atmosphere of the drawing-room into that of the workshop without disturbing the dramatic dignity or in the least lowering the artistic tone of the performance. The hero is presented in the clothes of a working man instead of a dress suit, and a powerful argument is made for a more thorough knowledge of the labofing man's needs by the capitalist, and no offense is given to either class. The company is thoroughly capable. as is well known here, and no doubt a great engagement, artistically and otherwise, will be played.

Monstrous Pretensions.

Los Angeles, Aug. 6.—To the Editor of The Times.] In view of the immense amount of discussion created by the Homestead troubles, it may be opportune to note that there has been a large, perhaps the largest, interest entirely overflooked.

The strikers declare that they have a right to be employed by the Carnegle Company: that the iron men are not entitled to close down their works or reduce the wages; and when they are deprived of either they immediately resort to the last and most violent means of coercing their employers into a compliance with their demands.

and most violent means of coercing their employers into a compliance with their demands.

Now imagine the astonishment that would be expressed, and the ridicule that would be heaped upon them if the consumers of the steel goods turned out of those mills should rush upon Homestead after the manner of the strikers, and with weapons and firebrands wreak their vengeance on the company, which they imagined to have wronged them?

Wronged them? Why not? Look at their position. Here is a man who has promised to build a bridge or ship by a certain day, if it be not combleted by that day he forfeits a certain sum. He has arranged with the Carnegie Company for the necessary steel used in construction; it fails to come because of the strike. The work is stopped: the workmen are thrown out of employment; the contractor had not counted on such a catastrophe and is unable to pay the amount of the forfeit. The failure to complete the structure not only ruins the contractor and looks out many workmen, but the employer of them both is frustrated and checkmated. Not only these, the public may have been depending on the putting in place of this steel for some much-needed improvement which would greatly benefit the people.

Is it not plain that the greater part of the poverty brought about by this labarmony at Homestead is caused by disappointing the consumer? Are past the strikers a small minority of the injured?

But if a body of patrons of the works should announce that the company must be compelled to furnish them with steel, and then would surround the works and express their determination to remain there is arms until supplied, would they not be quickly hissed down by the great American apeople? Suppose, also, that they should say that the Carnegie Company would be allowed to supply no one with the products of its mills except members of a union of consumers they had formed among themselves, and, upon refusal to comply, would lake forcible possession of the plant! Suppose they should threaten the lives of the managers if they would not sign an iron-clad agreement drawn up exclusively for the benefit of this union, contracting to furnish none but them with their output! Would not the Government make short work of punishing these mad men?

And why has a laborer employed by a manufacturer any greater claim on him than those who depend for what they need on that same manufacturer? Neither has aided him in establishing his business. The consumer will not buy of him because he is struggling to gain a trade. The workman will sacrifice nothing to help him to his feet if he is battling with an overwhelming competition. There is no ground for interference and dictation on the part of the striker which is not equally tenable by the consumer.

If we are to express sympathy with the the striker which is not equally tenable by the consumer.

If we are to express sympathy with the striking workman, let us also sympathize with the greater number whose affairs are demoralized by the cessation of production; let us sympathize with the consumers.

If the Carnegie works belong in part to the workmen, as is claimed, by virtue of the wealth their labor has created, then they belong no less to the consumers by virtue of the product of the works. And if the workmen have a right to take possession because of this interest they have in the firm, the consumer has the same right.

SCALE PEST DESTROYERS.

seautiful and Voracious Insects That ar Expected to Clean the Orchards of the Red and Black Scales— Habits of the Bugs.

The San Francisco Examiner of Mon-day has the following interesting article on scale-pest destroyers: Albert Koebele of Alameda, the student i Albert Koebele of Alameda, the student in economic entomology, whose return home from Australia after a year of research and investigation on behalf of the State Horticultural. Bureau was noted the other day has in his possession a large number obugs and insects that he hopes to success fully colonize in California, and if his expectations are realized the scale pests will have enemies so formidable as to reduce ave enemies so formidable as to reduce their ravages to the minimum and save to the California fruit-growers many thousands of dollars annually. Koebele is an enthusiast. In appearance he is a small, palide-faced, energetic German, who is known to fame as the discoverer of the weddike, a beneficial insect that has done much good in preying upon the enemies of the fruit trees. He watches over his bugs as if they were the most precious of earthly possessions, and his friends familiarly speak of him as the "Alameda bugologist."

The gentleman thinks that in the oreas australaste and the oreas challebeas, two specimens of his bugs, and many of which he brought with him on his return home, he has found a resistless enemy to the red scale of the citrus trees and the green aphis of the apple. He is confident they will become acclimated in time, and will be very successful in decreasing the red scale peat.

of the apple. He is conneant they will become acclimated in time, and will be very successful in decreasing the red scale pest, so as to put an end, practically, to the big financial loss that the citrus fruit-growers have suffered from it. Both are species of the coccinelides, and are of a beautiful steelblue color with bright red spots.

He says that the egg of the orcus Australaste is yellow in color and oval in shape, and is found attached to the surface of leaves at their broadest end in numbers as high as fifty. The fully-developed larva has an elongated form, with six rows of feshy spines covered with long hairs. In color it is black, with a whitish line extending its entire length of about a quarter of, an inch. Before changing to the pupa, the larva exudes an adhesive fluid by means of which, it attaches itself by the tail to a stem or leaf, and then contracts its length and increases in girth. In probably fifteen hours the pupa becomes incased in the skin of the larva, and assumes a red-yellow color with three rows of large black spots.

increases in girth. In probably fitteen hours the pupa becomes incased in the skin of the larya, and assumes a red-yellow color with three rows of large black spots. In from eight to twelve days the perfect insect in all its beauty of color makes its appearance, and becomes a bold and aggressive warrior in the insect kingdom.

The croise chelybens goes through the same strange and fascinating change of form and color, and is a smaller insect. But it smaller it is none the less a most effective enemy of the scale pests, destroying thousands of them in its successful struggle of the "survival of the fittest." The sterner sex of these insects, as well as of the first-named, have more yellow coloring than the female and are distinguished from the latter by the yellow sides of the prothorax.

Less conforms is the name of another variety of Mr. Koebele's beneficial bugs or insects. It belongs to the same family as the two algendy described. It can be said to have, they unending hatred of the orange aphis or red scale, for it preys unceasingly on it, so that it may be said that in the "bright lexicon" of its insect vocabulary there is no such word or phrase as pity for the aphis. It has the same pretty-coloring of the orange specimens named above, but unlike them its larva has small fleshy projections instead of hairy spines. Like the others, however, it is about a quarter of an inch in length.

A victorious conqueror of the black scale is the thelipocourse concephage, numbers of which insects the gentleman has gathered in Australia. They have such a fondness for the black scale that once on a tree infested by the latter they soon devour them and "long for other worlds to conquer." It is a small finesty projections, the head being of the former color, the head being of the former color, the head being of the former color, the bedy draw and white a most wondrous blending of pale velowish brown, gray, white and red colors, the head being of the order and the wines and the wines and the wines and the wines and the wines and with a most wondrous blending of pale yellowish brown, gray, white and red colors, the head being of the former color, the body gray and white and the wings red and brownish gray and yellowish white. The harmony of color is a study to delight the artist.

Koebele has other varieties that prey successfully on the red and black scales, such as various species of seymnids and rhesoliss, which he intends naming and describing, and a moth named chalpochares cocciplaga, which preys so successfully on the black scale in Australia as to render it comparatively harmless.

In all of his researches the gentleman has acted on the theory that the scale pests and aphides that live at the expense of fruits, crops and flowers must have their natural enemies in the insect kingdom, which, if properly selected and acclimated thinks the insects he has collected will fully answer the purpose by the time they have been sufficiently propagated, because both in their larval and fully developed states they have a most voracious appetite for the scale pests, their whole existence, as it were, being one hungry search for young and old and lean and fat scale insects and aphides. For this reason he thinks his trip has been a most successful one, and says that he found his work of searching for these miniature cannibals a most fas-

CANTERBURY FOUND.

The Whereabouts of the Missing Man Known to His Friends.

Telegram Received Ordering all Proceedings in the Case Stopped-What is Said About the Affair at Redlands-Family's Distress,

The disappearance of James C. Canterbury, the Redlands real estate operator, reported yesterday, caused considerable talk, as he was well known in to find any trace of the missing man after he left the Natick House, and were convinced that if he had met with foul play it was not in this city.

During the afternoon a man named H. C. Gilbert called at the police station and stated that he saw the missing man in San Bernardino a week ago Monday, and that he was then on his way home. The two are well acquainted and were together in San Bernardino an hour and had a drink of soda water before they parted. Mr. Canterbury told him he was stopping at the Hobbs house and that he had been to Los Angeles on business and was going to Redlands the next morn-

Last evening the following was received from THE TIMES COFFESPO

Redlands:

The account published in yesterday's Thes of the disappearance of J. C. Canterbury created great surprise here and the affair is the talk of the town. That he had disappeared was not known or suspected outside a limited circle, composed of his family and a few business associates. The publication of the disappearance set every tongue wagging and new facts have developed not before known to the public. The members of the family are all greatly st crazed, the two sons and two

It seems that there is a woman in the

It seems that the case; at least most people now think that there is. The belief is hinged upon the following facts: There has been living in a Coursea avenue, purchased of house on Cypress avenue, purchased of Mr. Canterbury on the installment plan, a woman by the name of Mrs. M. A. Covington, whose huswhich, if properly selected and acclimated here in sufficiently large numbers, will by subsisting on them keep the scales and aphides in almost complete check. He thinks the insects he has collected will fully with Mr. Canterbury, visiting him at his mountains, where he spends most of his time, coming down once or twice a month to see his wife. She became quite friendly with Mr. Canterbury, visiting him at his office frequently, sometimes as often as three or four times a day. When Mr. Canterbury was at South Riverside planting olives for the Olive Company, of which he is a member, Mrs. Covington went to that city and stayed a month. When visiting the office of Mr. Canterbury Mrs. Convington would frequently go into the inner office with him andy remain, in consultation for a long time, and their actions were thought very queer in this respect. Mr. Canterbury left here on the list and remained in San Bernardino until the next morning. Mrs. Covington purchased, a traveling satchel on Monday and left here on Tuesday morning. From the above facts it is thought by many that they met at San Bernardino on Tuesday morning, August 2, and departed together. Several other things point to that conclusion. One is that his property is rather heavily mortgaged and otherwise involved, and that he drew from the bank what money he had and more. He also borrowed a few days before $700 of Maj. L. H. Ut; giving his note for it. Everybody in Redlands had confidence in him and he might easily have borrowed several thousand dollars without security had he asked for it.

The family is well connected in this city, His brother, L. A. Canterbury, married a Crafts. He was drowned at Long Beach July 4, 1890. His father, Dr. Milton Canterbury, died in this city about two months ago. One man living here said he heard Mr. Canterbury, and the heart where we was a surface and the heart was contracted and the heart where we was a surface here we was going and he heater falled in a canter here was going and he heater falled in a canter was going and he latter falled in a canter was going and he latter falled in a canter here was going and he latter falled in a canter here was going and he latter falled in a canter latter the latter falled in a canter latter the latter falled in a canter latte

Take one ounce of spirits of resolution, an equal proportion of the oil of good conscience; infuse into these a tablespoonful of the salts of pattence, and add thereto a few sprigs of others' woes, which grow extensively in the garden of life. Gather also a handful of the blossoms of hope; sweeten these with the balm of Providence and if possible procure a few drops of genuine friendship, but be careful of counterfeits in the ingredients of self-interest, which grows spontaneously; the least admixture of it with the above would spoil the composition. Reduce the whole to an electuary by a proper proportion of content, flavor with the essence of good judgment and regulate the quantity according to the virulence of the disease. Having tried the above recipt we know it to be an infallible care.

Two Decisions by Judge Wade in Chambers.

Suit Upon a Contract for Sale of Real Estate Decided.

Judge Wade rendered two decision

Judge Wade rendered two decisions in chambers yesterday afternoon, overruling the demurrers in the cases of Wagner et ux. vs. Bell, and Davies et al. vs. Nolte et al, in accordance with the following opinions filed therein:

Wagner et ux. vs. Bell et al. The only grounds alleged in the amended demurrer are that the complaint does not state facts sumcient to constitute a cause of action that there is a misjoinder of parties plaintiff; that there is a misjoinder of parties plaintiff for another reason assigned; that the several causes of action have been improperly united; also, that the complaint is unintelligible; that the complaint is ambiguous and uncertain. All of these grounds are untenable. There is no misjoinder of parties plaintiff. There is no misjoinder of parties plaintiff. There is no misjoinder of the causes of action, nor is the complaint unintelligible, ambiguous or uncertain in any respect. The brief filed by demurrants is singularly inapt in its citation of authorities. The cases cited are either inapplicable or they are directly opposed to the defendant's contention; it needs no review of the allegations of the complaint to make it clear to the ordinary comprehension that it states facts sumcient to constitute a cause of action, therefore the demurrer in overruled. Ten days, to the defendant to answer.

DAVIES VS. NOLTE.

DAVIES VS. NOLTE.

J. F. Davies et al. vs. C. A. Nolte et This action is brought upon a contract for the sale of real estate to recover that por-

This action is brought upon a contract for the sale of real estate to recover that portion of the deferred payment evidenced by notes which have been transferred to one of the plaintiffs by the other. The original grantor or covenantor is properly made a party plaintiff and continues to make his tender of a deed good by offering to convey the premises to defendant Nolte upon the payment of the indebtedness evidenced by the notes, to his assignee. The contract was made with defendant Nolte but Fout, the demurrant, and Zilmer, administrator of the estate of Criswell, are made parties defendant because of a subsequent contract between Nolte; and Fout and Criswell, whereby Nolte agreed to sell, and Nolte, Fout and Criswell agreed to purchase from Nolte the premises which Nolte had agreed to purchase from Davies.

The cross-complaint of Nolte alleges that in entering into the agreement with Davies he acted under a previous agreement with his co-defendants, whereby the purchase was to be made for the joint benefit of the three. That in taking the title in his own name he acted as trustee for the syndicate, of which he was a member. Then he alleges that by a subsequent written agreement which he makes part of the cross-complaint as "exhibit B" he agreed to convey to them (the syndicate) the property in question. He also alleges that he has performed his part of the agreement with Davis, and that his co-defendants have failed and refused to perform their obligations to him; expresses his readiness, ability and willingness to convey upon their completion of performance and asks relief. If these allegations are true, cross-complainant is entitled to relief against his codefendants, hence the demurrer so far as it stands upon the general ground, must be overruled.

If the second count of the cross complaint is, as demurrant suggests, precisely the defendants, hence the demurrer so far as it stands upon the general ground, must be overruled.

If the second count of the cross complaint is, as demurrant suggests, precisely the same as the pleading to which the demurrer was sustained upon the ground that it failed to state a cause of action, then the courferred in sustaining the demurrer to, the cross-complaint.

The next ground of demurrer is ambiguity—(a) between the allegations of paragraphs 1 and 2 respectively. There is nothing ambiguous in an averment that three persons agreed between themselves to purchase a piece of real estate, and that subsequently, pursuant to said agreement, it was purchased by one of them who took the title in his own name; a resulting trust would follow, by intendment the purchase was so made with the knowledge and consent of the beneficiaries—at all events the trustee acknowledges his obligation to hold it in trust for them.

(b) This ambiguity complained of is between paragraphs 8 and 10 and conconsists of an averment that cross-complainant has performed all the obligations of a contract incumbent upon him, notwithstanding which he has been sued upon the contract. Without attempting to analyze the averment of performance and applying it to where it evidently belongs—to the mutual obligations of the members of the syndicate—it suffices to say that there is no ambiguity here.

The specifications (a) and (b) under the ground of uncertainty will not support the demurrer. For the purposes of the cross-complaint it is unnecessary to show with more particularity what has been paid or by whom, nor whether Nolte has obtained title.

The demurrer to the second count on the ground of uncertainty (specifications from a to the first particularity what has been paid or by whom, nor whether Nolte has obtained title.

The demurrer to the second count on the

The demurrer to the second count on the ground of uncertainty (specifications from A to H inclusive) is overruled.

The cross-complaint shows what sums were paid and what unpaid; it shows what sums were demanded from the two defaulting members of the syndicate, and it cannot be intended that the third member is or was in default to himself. It is alleged that he has performed at the conditions of the contract on his part, and these allegations are sufficient to make it reasonably clear and certain that both Fout, and Zilmer as administrator are in default, in so far as keeping their engagements with their co-defendant is concerned.

The demurrer should therefore be overruled, and it is so ordered, with ten days to demurrant to answer the amended cross-complaint.

The Chronicle of Menday devotes considerable valuable space to criticism of Mr. Vanderbeck, written in a petty, spiteful manner. It is an open setreuthat the author of these squibs is President Mone himself, although they stook a woeful ignorance of the baseball situation in Los Angeles. The people here realize that Mr. Vanderbeck has given this city the best, and by far the highest-priced club in the league, and he is asking only common justice from the other directors, and instead of that gets robbed of his rights and abused for daring to stand up against the combine. Before the season opened Mr. Vanderbeck tried hard to have Los Angeles admitted as a 25-cent admission town, and even offered to exchange his share of the San Francisco receipts for the 25-cent Los Angeles gate, but this proposition was not accepted. It is the first time that the California League has had a director who dared to stand up for honest baseball, as against the wretched combination tricksters of the past, and there is a big game of bluff on just now to keep the Southern magnate from jumping over the traces.

George Darby, who made something just now to keep the Southern magnate from jumping over the traces.

George Darby, who made something of a reputation for himself last season as a "contract jumper," seems to be at the trick again this season. After accepting the terms of Rochester he has gone to Helena, Mont. He was wanted by Philadelphia, in the National League, and his latest escapade is difficult to understand.

HE Dress Goods Department is becoming mighty interesting; it will be a battle of the giants as to who will be at the top. It is a well-established fact that inside of six months we have almost quadrupled the cloak sales over the same period of last year. Why cannot the same result be accomplished in the Dress Goods Department? It can and it will. Many a man has reached the goal of his ambition by standing at the helm in the fiercest of the battle, asking and giving no quarter. The Corset sales have more than doubled. The Dress Goods Department must more than double this fall; the stock today is the largest we have ever shown. If it is a question of prices they have been made to meet your views; the stock is now complete—the line at 55c is equal in every respect to any dollar line in this city. This seems like an exaggeration; we do not exaggerate in our advertising-if you buy an article here and if, for any reason whatever, you do not want it, bring it back and get your money. This shows you it is public confidence we are after, and if the 55c Dress Goods are not equal in every respect to any dollar line in this city you have your remedy by a return of the goods. We have another line for 50c-a new weave, on display today for the first time; if you can duplicate them for less than 75c elsewhere bring them back and get your money. Nothing can be fairer, nothing more safe for you. It is our new way. At least take a look at our new Dress Goods Department-new in goods and new in the way we do business, Samples given to all applicants with the greatest freedom-we give samples to merchants as freely as to customers. There is no jealousy, no cringing here—the business is done in the widest track and upon the most approved business methods, and the growth of this house is without a parallel in the dry goods business of this city. Gaining more trade than any three houses in the city. Closing out Shoes to enlarge the Cloak Department.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

Defice of the times.

Los Angeles, Aug. 9, 1892.

A dispatch from New York says: "The reported raisin combine on the Coast has suddenly unsettled trading inclinations here, and sellers seem unable to name use. ful quotations for new business. This check is sunfortunate at this lender period of the market, especially as trade really started off with a good, confident feeling. It is, of oourse, conceded that producers and packers should accomplish reasonable terms for supplies particularly for a season which follows the last low-priced, glutted one, but some of our prominent sellers contend that dictation of prices for an article that is liable to sectional dissimilarity of quality is sure to create confusion. Raisins ought to be assured of a safe run this season, even with the Valencias in view, as there is no old stock in the way, and the Columbian Exposition will bring forward an extra flow of consumers that will help raisins as well as other semi-lux urious goods."

The Mark Lane Express in its weekly re-OFFICE OF THE TIMES.

will help raisins as well as other semi-luxurious goods."

The Mark Lane Express in its weekly review of the English grain trade says: "English wheats were weaker, there being an average fall in the London market of 6d.

Crops of wheat and barley are good; beans and peas promise badly; potatoes promise to yield 600,000 tons. This is likely to limit the demand for wheat. Foreign wheats were heavy: American whiter cargoes have fallen 6d. Corn was steady; barley quiet; beans and peas firm. Today English wheats were unimproved; foreign were firmer. California, Indian and Australian were 3d better. Oats were 3d higher. Beans, owing the spread of blight in the home crops rose 1s. There was good sale of corn at 6d advance. Flour was steady, and peas firm."

We are soliciting subscriptions for shares in an incorporation to be organized for the purpose of buying from the present owners the Fowler Ranch. containing $620 acres, situate on the border line of Tuiare and Kern counties, for $20 per acre, four miles west of the Valley Road of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and four miles north of the branch line to the oil wells and twelve miles west of the present line to San Francisco. A survey of the Santa Fe linehas been made through the western portion of this tract with its present improvements and with $30,000 of improvements to be made by the owners and included in the price of $20 per acre, as stated. This is not a land distribution, but an investment of money, with return of money and profits, by dividing the tract into $0 acre substitions, and after the improvements are made, selling at a future period at $100 or more per acre. This shows a decrease of about $4200 in the matter of salaries. The decrease in the Washington school of $990 is accounted for by the fact that one teacher was dropped. The special teachers were also dropped, thereby effecting a saving of $1825, it being believed by the present directors that the ordinary normal school graduate is amply able to give competent instruction in the rudimentary principles of penmanship, music and drawing.

The salaries of teachers for the ensuing year, outside of the high school, are estimated at $19,040, to which the general expenses as estimated on last year's warrants business, Mr. Boynton, secretary of the board, in compliance with a resolution passed at a former meeting that the accounts of the district for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, be audited and compared with the books of the County Super-intendent showing the financial condition July 1, 1892, submitted the following re-district, to County Superintendent of Schools of receipts and disbursements from July 1, 1891, to June 30, 1892:

Total... ..$28,187 68 228,187 68 The report shows some interesting figures. It will be noticed that according to the report of the cierk of the former Board of Trustees, now filed with County Superintendent Seaman, the total balance of over-drawn warrants is placed at $2323. drawn warrants is placed at $3283.71, while in reality it is $7710. The difference is explained by an inspection of the books, where, for instance, the sum of $3177 is entered up under the head of county apportionments and again under the State apportionments. The latter entry is made under date of May 19, but as a matter of fact no such sum has been received so far. Again, a balance of $875.33 is credited to the special fund July 1 1891, which should be reduced to $543.68, warrants to the amount of $331.65 having been drawn prior to that date and not charged up. This accounts for about $3500 of the difference between the balance struck in the former board's report and the statement as prepared by Mr. Boynton. The remaining discrepancy of $1000 or so is explained in a manner similar, the individual amounts, however, being smaller.

This is one side of the question. There is another, and that is that the report contains no mention of an appropriation, which will be received this month and which the directors now have reason to believe will be nearly equal to $4000, which is to apply to the payment of last year's expenses. Deducting this from the $7719 outstanding and there remains a little over $3000 of debts to be covered by the special tax of $10,000.

outstanding and there remains a little over $3000 of debts to be covered by the special tax of $10,000.

In commenting on the report the Star reporter displays either wilful ignorance or a total disinclination to tell the truth when he says: "it shows that the Star had ample cause for stating that a considerable part of the special tax of $10,000 would be needed to clear off the shortage of the district at the beginning of this school year, which it will be seen is $7719. Against this shortage there is a credit to the interested funds of two cents." All mention is omitted of the coming appropriation, which is to apply—as the writer of the above well knows—exclusively to the payment of last year's debts, and which emphatically proves exactly what The Three has all the while insisted that a special tax of $10,000 has been levied on the people of this district to square off a debt that will amount to something over $3000, which statement is respectfully referred to the digestive organs of the Star man without further comment.

It being settled, then, that the district will start in the ensuing year with $10,000 good tax money to pay off its old debts of $3000 or so.it may not be amiss to take a glance at the future. It will be remembered that before the recent election the friends of Mr. Boynton insisted that the schools could and should be run within the appropriations without making them any less efficient. The leaders of the opposition thought otherwise. They all insisted that a special tax was necessary, and some went so far as to assert that even more money would have to be raised in this way each year to keep the schools running in the future. Mr. Boynton was elected by an overwhelming majority. He has now before the opening of the coming school year, prepared the following interesting report which he has kindly furnished The Thris reporter for publication, showing the relative annual expenses in the matter of teachers' salaries alone during the past year and the year to come: SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY

On the estimated apportionment of 1739 pupils for the year 1892-3, we will have 25 teachers (70 pupils to a teacher) at $500 each, or a total of $12.500, which, added to the average daily attendance for 1891-2, 1108 pupils at $12 each, or a total amount of $13,296, brings the total apportionment outside of the high school up to $25,796, as opposed to a total expense account of $24,602.16. A special meeting of the Lake Vineyard Water Company directors was held Mohday evening to hear the report of the engineer regarding the work at Devil's Gate, The engineer, as a result of measurements made during the day, stated that the tunnels had been dug the full distance contracted for—800 feet. A careful measurement showed that the tunneling has effected an increase of a trifle over 100 miner's inches from this one source of supply. The directors expressed themselves as altogether satisfied with the result and favor carrying on the work some distance further. The Pasadena Land and Water Company will meet on Friday and take action in the matter, the companies having a joint interest in the work.

An Invalid Ends His Sufferings by Shootin Himself—His Last Letter.

An invalid measurements by shooting Himself—His Last Letter.

A Dauckengay, living on Anacapa street, committed suicide yesterday morning about 8 o'clock by shooting himself through the head with a pistol.

He and a full cousin named Auguste Leyns came to America from Belgium in 1867 and have lived together ever since, neither of them having ever married. They lived for a time in Colorado, then for ten years in New Mexico, leaving there and coming to California in 1888. The two men rented the house in which Dauckengny died some three years ago, and they had lived together since, doing their own cooking and housekeeping. He had been in ill health for a long time, suffering from a complication of diseases, until driven to desperation, with no prospect of relief, he could stand it no longer and determined to end his sufferings.

desperation, with no prospect of relief, he could stand it no longer and determined to end his sufferings.

The two men had gone to bed as usual, sleeping in different parts of the house, when at 1 o'clock Leyns was called by Dauckengny. This was not an unusual occurrence, as he frequently suffered so he could not sleep. He complained of not being able to sleep, and said, jokingly, "You will have a coroner's jury up here soon." Leyns said he often spoke that way and he placed no special meaning to it.

In the morning Leyns got up, prepared breakfast Leyns left the house to take care of his horse, being absent from the house perhaps twenty minutes. Upon returning he glanced into the room where Dauckengny was and saw him sitting in a chair; he then spoke to him, but getting no answer, went into the room and found him dead, with a pool of blood on the foor and a pistol lying beside it. The lady living next door had heard the shot, although Leyns being further away had not heard it. He had seated himself in a chair facing his desk, upon which he had placed a small hand-mirror, and while no one saw him do it, yet the indications all seem to prove that looking in the glass he had taken aim with his left hand and carefully shot himself in the left temple, the ball penetrating to the skin on the opposite side. He had not fallen out of his chair, but his body inclined over to one side. He had lost his right arm accidentally in Colorado by shooting himself in 1873.

out of his chair, but his body inclined over to one side. He had lost his right arm accidentally in Colorado by shooting himself in 1873.

Mr. Leyns notified Officer Kelton, who stayed until Coroner Ruiz took charge. The body was removed to Hiller's undertaking rooms, on State street, and an inquest held in the afternoon, the jury rendering a verdict of suicide in accordance with the above facts, Mr. Leyns being the the only witness examined. Upon the table in the dining-room of the house the following note, written very plainly and beautifully in back hand, as one writting with the left hand would do, was found, upon which he had set his hat:

"Good-by, dear old friend Leyns, and good-by forever. May God forgive me for this unjust and unfair act, but my sufferings and infirmities becoming every day more unbearable, make me decide to do this extreme act. Good-by again, and I cannot express myself high enough for your kindness to me and ever readiness to assist me through all my sicknesses.

Moisture FROM FOGS.

But few people realize the amount of moisture precipitated during the summer months by prevailing ocean fogs that sweep inland for miles from almost all coast points. In these fogs may be hidden the secret of success of the vegetable farmer as well as the cereal and nut producer. But here are the figures for Santa Ana as kept by the Board of Trade: May 24, .05 of an inch: June 29, .03 of an inch: June 10, .01 of an inch: June 11, .05 of an inch: June 12, .04 of an inch: June 22, .05 of an inch: August 7, .05 of an inch: August 8, .06 of an inch: August 7, .05 of an inch: August 7, .06 of an inch: making to date, .46 of an inch for the season, the equivalent of a fair-sized winter rain. This precipitation of moisture destributed so evenly throughout the summer months is very refreshing to all vegetation and indispensible to the more tender and foreign plants not used to the constant rays of a summer sun.

ANAHEIM.

During the week parties have been busy circulating petitions to the board of directors of the irrigation district, one asking them to favorably consider the bid of Mr. Pirtle for purchasing $300,000 of the bonds at $60 cents, and the other protesting against the sale of any of the bonds. The latter petition was originated by a few who are and always have been opposed to progress in the district, and the defeat of the bond sale is sought with the ultimate view or hope that the district may become dismembered. Right here it may be remarked that a great many people are becoming thoroughly disgusted with the dilly-dallying of the board, the continual pilting up of assessments and expense and nothing being accomplished, and if the board proves so wooden-headed as to allow this chance (the first bona fide one they have had, and, withal, at better terms than have yet been offered for similar securities) to slip by, they shall be deserving the censure of the taxpayers, and they will doubtless be firmly asked to step down and out. As intimated above, but one or two bad breaks will suffice to so arouse the spirit of opposition that is lying dormant as to render impossible the successful organization of the district. With $300,000 of bonds placed for cash at 90 cents, the balance of the $600,000 would be accepted at par for the Anahelm Union Water Company rights and property, the Yorba rights, and for a great deal of the material and labor required for contemplated improvements. Then, after paying off the present debt of the old water company, some $60,000, a handsome sum would be left for a working capital.

The board will meet this morning at 10 o'clock to decide upon this bond proposition, and it is sincerely to be hoped that they will rote to sell. This one thing will circulating petitions to the board of direc-tors of the irrigation district, one asking Coaline, the new detergent, is one of the seful articles that no well-regulated household should ever be without. For washing clothes, or any kind of house-cleaning, it is invaluable. For cleaning paint, varnished surfaces, window glass, mirrors, gilt frames, marble, silverware, furniture, showcases, bronzes, cut glass, gloves, gas fixtures, etc., nothing equals it. It removes paint, pitch or tar from the hands or clothing. Anything solled by oil, grease, files, or dirt of any kind, can be restored almost at once, and without muscular labor, to its ing. Anything solled by oil, grease, files, or dirt of any kind, can be restored almost at once, and without muscular labor, to its original purity by the use of Coaline, and that without the use of soap or water or the slightest injury to the material or the hands of the person using it. Containing no acid, no lime, no potash, it leaves the hands soit and white, and, in fact, cures cuts and scatches of the skin if there be any. It also cures the poison of the poison oak at once and removes sunburn. In the East it is rapidly coming into general use in factories, mills, printing offices, and in fact everywhere where the hands of operatives are liable to become sore or stained. In hotels and in steamers it is used in washing dishes. For the bath there is mothing better and dentists everywhere are recommending it for the cleaning of false teeth. It is sold in this city by W. E. Rogers, No. 125 East Third street, who is the general agent. His postoffice address is, box 635, Los Angeles. Coaline sells at 50 cents per large bottle and full directions accompany every package.

POLICE BUSINESS.

A Decidedly Breezy Session of the Commission.

The Old Question of Bribery and Corruption Again Brought Up.

Resolution by Mr. Snyder That Caused a Sensation.

The Police Commissioners met in the Mayor's office yesterday afternoon, with Mayor Hazard in the chair and the full board present. The chief reported favorably on the application of John H. F. Peck for the transfer of the license for the Hollenbeck saloon, now in the name of Cowley & Baker, and the same was granted. The chief reported the suspension of Mounted Officer C. Farmer for violation of article 15 of rule 1, and on motion of Commissioner Lewis the action of the chief was approved.

Street Superintendent Hutchinson appeared and asked that the superintendent of street sweeping be appointed a special officer, as he has had considerable trouble in having teams moved. Mr.

trouble in having teams moved. Mr. Hutchinson was requested to put the application in regular form, when it will be granted.

The case of Officer Farmer was then taken up, and the officer presented a written statement. The officer stated that in making an arrest he was severely kicked and took two or three drinks under the impression that it would help him and took too much. After an explanation from the chief and others the officer, by a unanimous vote, was reinstated.

The application of Theodore Timms for a saloon license for No. 1518 San Fernando street was referred to the chief for investigation.

Commissioner Shyder presented the following resolution:

tensive scale in violation of the ordinance of the city: and WHEREAS, rumors are in circulation to the effect that police officials and certain members of this commission are in receipt of a stated income weekly for permitting said gambling games to be operated, all of which is unfounded; therefore be it Resolved, that the Chief of Police be instructed to at once take steps to put a stop to all gambling in Chinatown by raiding all fan tan games, by directing the officers on tha Chinatown beats to locate the places where such games are played, and by impressing upon them the importance of keeping a vigilant watch upon such places. Resolved, that the chief is hereby directed to furnish this commission at its next regular meeting, with the names of all the lottery companies now operating in Chinatown, together with the places where said lottery companies have their daily drawings.

The reading of the resolution caused a decided sensation, and for a few sec-onds nothing was said, as the commis-sioners were too much surprised to ex-press themselves. They soon found their tongues, however, and then for something more than thirty minutes Mr. Sdyder's life was a burden to him.

Commissioner Snyder started in to explain what he meant by the introduction of the resolution, but had not pro-ceeded far when he was asked to give his authority for the serious reflections cast upon the members of the commission and police force. Commissioner Snyder was not pre-pared to go into details. He said that he had frequently been asked during the past few months how much he was getting out of Chinatown, and now that getting out of Chinatown, and now that the newspapers had taken the matter up, he thought the commissioners should take some action. He did not believe himself that any member of the commission, or the Chief of Police, is corrupt, but he wanted the matter in-The other commissioners demanded the names of the men who had made the charges against them, and the news-paper article which had called out the erious charges.

Mayor Hazard said that he had the utmost confidence in the integrity, not only of the chief, but of every member of the commission, and if he thought otherwise he would at once be in favor of the summary dismissal of that official.

Commissioner Lewis favored turning over the whole detective force to Cor missioner Snyder to enable him to ferret out this corruption, a suggestion which was concurred in by the other commissioners with the exception of Mr. Snyder, who insisted that he had made no charges and who objected to having the matter made a personal one. A running debate followed in which all the members took part, each one insisting that Mr. Snyder should furnish proof to back up his resolution, while that gentleman insisted that he had made no charges and should not be put missioner Snyder to enable him to fer gation they did not proposed to go into it in that way.

Chief Glass said that he has always been opposed to gambling and has been honestly trying to suppress it. There is no doubt but what fan tan is and always has been played in Chinatown, but it was not done with the connivance of the police force, and so far as he knew no money had ever been paid under his administration nor would there be, and if it could be shown that pain under insaministration nor would there be, and if it could be shown that any officer had taken a bribe he would suspend him. He invited the Commis-sioners to make a visit through China-town at any time they saw fit and sat-

Commissioner Shatto favored a criminal prosecution of the persons who spread the reports, if there was any law by which they could be reached.

Commissioner Lewis wanted the preamble struck out also, and Mr. Mackey's resolution adopted as it stood, as he thought that was sufficient.

Commissioner Shatto thought it would be a good idea to offer a reward for any information, and each member expressed his willingness to contribute $100 for that purpose, to be paid any one will furnish evidence of corruption in the police force or among the commissioners, to the end that the guilty parties may be punished if there are parties may be punished if there are

The other members joined in the request, but Mr. Suyder flatly refused to be sworn or to give the names of his informants, but repeated that a dozen men had spoken to him on the subject.

Again he was asked to be sworn and to give the names, and again he refused and asked that the matter be continued for one week, promising to give the names in the meantime, if it was found that the commissioners had a right to compel the attendance of witnesses.

Commissioner Mackey then renewed

Commissioner Mackey then renewed his motion that furtner discussion be his motion that furtner discussion be postponed for one week; that the power of the board to summon witnesses and compel their attendance be ascertained, and that persons in possession of any information going to show corruption in the police department be requested to furnish the same to this board, to the end that the same may be fully investigated.

This resolution passed by a unanimous vote, after which the board adjourned.

values to our trade in an honest, business-like manner with one result, that of success. It's next to foolhardy for any one to try and foist on their patrons goods that are unseasonable or unsalable, provided the object is to sell. We must say that our desire is to sell our wares; we have no interest in keeping them on our shelves and fixtures; they must go, and in order to sweep them out value and valuation must be given. We ought to offer an apology for the scandalous sweeping quotations we have named. To those that know our disregard for prices we need say nothing, but others who read our assertions and are not familiar with our daring doings in cuttidg the values of our belongings, we might say this is done to add coin to our coffers, to bridge over a dull, dismal month.
